Janitorial work is not glamorous, but every building in Roanoke depends on it. When trash goes out on time, floors stay clear of grit and restrooms are sanitized properly, nobody thinks Roanoke maid service about it. When it slips, everyone does. The Happy Housekeepers created Corporate Clean in 1986 specifically to give local businesses a janitorial cleaning service they could stop worrying about.

The division grew out of a company that had already spent seven years cleaning homes across the Roanoke Valley. Founder cleaning service Roanoke Mary Jane Wszolek saw that the same attention to detail customers loved at home was missing in many offices, so she expanded. Today Corporate Clean services executive offices, general offices and medical facilities, and it brings experience that includes handling biohazard materials, which is something many smaller operators are not equipped to do.

A typical janitorial visit covers the essentials that keep a building healthy and presentable: dusting furniture and horizontal surfaces, vacuuming carpets, vacuuming and mopping hard floors, emptying and removing trash, sanitizing bathrooms and phones, and dusting window coverings. Phones in particular are easy to overlook, yet they are among the most handled objects in any office. Each contract is tailored, and service is available daily, weekly, bi-monthly or monthly.

Behind the crews is a support structure that matters to facility managers. Employees are trained by the company, a supervisor is always on call, and all chemicals and equipment are supplied. If you need help sourcing restroom or kitchen paper products, the team can help arrange suppliers. The company is licensed, bonded and insured and has been BBB accredited since December 1993 with an A+ rating, so you are dealing with an established local business rather than a revolving door of subcontractors.

Facility managers also appreciate having one provider who can handle both routine janitorial work and the occasional bigger project. When a suite needs a deeper clean after a renovation, a tenant move or a carpet replacement, the same company that handles nightly service can schedule the extra work. That avoids bringing in an unfamiliar crew who does not know your building, your alarm codes or your expectations, and keeps your janitorial cleaning service consistent from one month to the next.

Businesses in Roanoke, Salem, Vinton, Hollins and the surrounding county can request a free, no-obligation janitorial estimate.
