

What this visit achieves and why it matters

A comprehensive annual checkup is a proactive health investment. It helps identify subtle health changes early, so you and your clinician can tailor a prevention plan. Scheduling this visit with Wellington Internal Medicine Group is straightforward, designed to minimize friction while ensuring a thorough assessment and personalized guidance.

What you get from our annual health review

- Clear purpose: A detailed look at your health status, medication list, and risk factors.
- Measured checks: Blood pressure, heart rate, height, weight, and other relevant metrics are reviewed.
- Thorough exam: A complete physical focuses on major organ systems and any symptoms you've reported.
- Targeted tests: Lab work and screenings tailored to age and risk factors.
- Individualized plan: A prevention strategy built around your lifestyle, goals, and health history.

How to plan your visit

- Determine the Wellington clinic that's most convenient for you and your routine.
- Gather essential items: ID, insurance information, current medications, and a list of health concerns.
- Prepare a short briefing of health goals to discuss with your doctor.

What happens during the appointment

- A detailed health history discussion to understand your background and current needs.
- Vital signs and a focused physical examination.
- Review of lab results from any prior tests and planning of new tests if needed.
- Preventive recommendations including vaccines, screenings, and lifestyle advice.
- A follow-up plan with recommended intervals for tests or visits.
