

Fine art, mirrors, and large glassware require packing methods that go beyond a standard box and bubble wrap. Manifest Moving Columbus has packed enough of these items to know exactly where damage most often happens and how to prevent it.

Packing Fine Art Correctly

Framed art should be wrapped in glassine paper first to protect the surface, followed by cardboard corner protectors and a snug-fitting box. Manifest Moving Company avoids using regular newspaper directly against artwork, since ink can transfer onto the surface.

Handling Mirrors Without Cracking Them

Mirrors need a rigid mirror box or a flat surface with cardboard on both sides, secured with tape in an X pattern across the glass to reduce shattering risk if pressure is applied. A Moving Company in Columbus OH should always transport mirrors upright, never flat, to avoid pressure buildup.

Protecting Large Glassware

Vases, glass tabletops, and large serving pieces need individual wrapping with packing paper and enough cushioning in the box to prevent shifting. Columbus OH Movers recommend filling empty space in the box with moving company in Columbus packing paper rather than leaving gaps.
