

Hail is generally treated as a no fault comprehensive insurance event, and Hail Solutions Paintless Dent Repair helps Kansas City metro drivers understand how this affects their specific policy. Because hail damage is considered no fault, filing a claim generally does paintless dent repair not raise a driver's premium the way PDR technician an at fault accident claim typically would, though specifics vary by carrier and driving history. The company's free hail claim walkthrough helps drivers understand this distinction and file their own claim with confidence, without needing to rely solely on an insurance agent's explanation.
