

Heating Installation Burlington MA Damaso Plumbing Heating New System Installing a new heating system is one of the largest home improvement investments a Burlington homeowner can make, and choosing the right contractor for the installation is as important as choosing the right equipment. Damaso Plumbing and Heating Inc provides heating installation throughout Burlington and the Greater Boston area, handling new boiler installations, furnace replacements, hot water heating system installations, and the associated gas line work that heating system installation requires in Massachusetts homes. The dominant heating system type in Burlington and across the North Shore is hot water baseboard heating, which distributes heat through a network of baseboard radiators connected to a central boiler. Installing a new boiler in Burlington requires a Massachusetts licensed contractor with the appropriate credentials, and Damaso Plumbing and Heating Inc holds the Massachusetts Master Plumber license MP-15978, Gas Fitter credentials, and Oil Burner Technician license BU-130868 that cover the full range of heating system installation types in Massachusetts. The company's approach to heating installation begins with an honest assessment of the existing system and the home's heating requirements, giving Burlington homeowners the information they need to make an informed decision about equipment selection rather than being sold the most expensive option regardless of whether it is the most appropriate. This advisory approach, grounded Damaso Plumbing & Heating Inc plumber Burlington MA in the integrity that Brian Damaso describes as the foundation of his business, produces installations that are correctly sized and properly matched to the home.
